"An internationally accredited agency to better serve the public"

JOHN LOWRY
POLICE CHIEF

Dear Citizen,

It is a distinct privilege for me to present to you the 2010 Annual Report of the Johnson City Police Department. Within these pages, you will find statistics, charts, graphs, and descriptions which measure and document the activity of your Police Department over the course of the year. As you review these data, please keep in mind that they represent the dedication and commitment of the Police Department's employees – serving you twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week – who make our community a safer place to live, work, and play.

Our goal as a law enforcement agency is to provide effective and timely police services to the citizens of Johnson City. In order to accomplish this mission, it is crucial for the Department and members of the community to collaborate in identifying and addressing specific concerns and potential problems. In this way, comprehensive resources on many levels can be made available and brought to bear on crime and those factors that contribute to criminal activity. This is the basic tenet of community policing, a practice to which we remain firmly committed.

This Annual Report presents not only public safety challenges that are faced by the Department, but also the progress made in meeting these challenges. With the continued support and partnership of the community, we look forward to another year of helping to improve the quality of life in our City.

Sincerely,

Johnson City's 2010 Crime Statistics Available

"Crime report information for Johnson City from 2010 is now available," according to Police Chief John Lowry. Johnson City recorded a crime rate of 5,300 in 2010 for Part I offenses (based on per 100,000) population. This is a slight increase from last year but is consistent with recent trends downward over past years. In 2010, Johnson City saw an overall increase in crime by 11.8% over the previous year. There was significant rise in the category of forcible rape (up 86%), but there was also an equal decrease in the murder rate (down 86%). Arson also rose significantly (up 50%). Moderate increases occurred in the categories of larceny (up 15%) and burglary (up 9%). A moderate decrease was detected in motor vehicle thefts (down 11%). Minor decreases were seen in the categories of robbery (down 2%) and aggravated assault (down 2%). (Data source: Crime in Tennessee 2010).

Crime Index Defined

The Crime Index selects certain criminal offenses to gauge fluctuations in the overall volume and rate of serious crime reported to law enforcement agencies throughout the country. The offenses include the violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault. Also included are the property crimes of burglary, larceny, motor vehicle theft, and arson. The FBI's Uniform Crime Report figures, contained in Crime in the United States, 2010, are compared with local figures.

How Safe is Johnson City

So that comparisons can be made at a national level, a community's crime rate is determined by using the number of index crimes reported per 100,000 population. Using this standard formula, Johnson City's 2010 crime rate is calculated at 5,300. The city's overall violent crime rate decreased slightly by 1.5% while overall property crime rate increased moderately by 13%. Highlights of the Police Department's crime rate analysis follow.

- One violent crime category indicated an increase from 2009: rape (26%).
- Three violent crime categories indicated a decrease from 2009: murder (86%), robbery (2%), and robbery (2%).

- Three property crime categories showed increases: arson (50%), larceny (15%), and burglary (9%).
- Numerical totals for all eight index crimes (murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, larceny, burglary, vehicle theft, and arson) over a five-year period are as follows.

Year	Number	Percent change
2006	3,771	-8%
2007	3,396	-9.9%
2008	3,228	-4.9%
2009	2,998	-7.1%
2010	3,351	+11.8%

- The Department’s 2010 clearance rate for index violent crimes was 79.8%, compared to the 2009 national average of 48.2%. The clearance rate locally for index property crimes was 41.6%, far greater than the national 2009 average clearance of 15.5%. (Data source: FBI’s Crime in the United States 2009).
- According to data derived from Crime In Tennessee 2010, published by the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation Crime Statistics Unit, the average clearance rate for Group A offenses statewide in 2010 was 34.8%. Group A offenses include the eight index crimes noted above and additional categories designated as crimes against persons, crimes against property, and crimes against society. The Johnson City Police Department documented a significantly better 2010 Group A clearance rate of 58.6%.

What does it mean?

“The key to any lasting success attained by a law enforcement agency is community involvement,” says Chief Lowry. “The Police Department, together with other City of Johnson City departments, has been very active in the Neighborhood Action Committee and community meetings on the neighborhood level. It is at this level where we can most effectively serve, by learning what the problems and concerns are among residents, crafting and implementing solutions in partnership with residents and other resource agencies, and evaluating the results.” The Neighborhood Action Committee was established several years ago, and consists of city department heads and staff who are actively involved in neighborhood issues. Chief Lowry is the present chairperson of the committee. “National statistics suggest that only about 35% of crime is actually reported. Increases in reported crime may be attributed to a greater level of confidence in the commitment and ability of this law enforcement agency to bring investigations to a successful resolution and prosecution. Our clearance rates over the past several years seem to speak favorably toward that end.”

Chief Lowry identified additional factors that aid the Johnson City Police Department in accomplishing its public safety mission:

- Dedicated sworn and non-sworn personnel.
- Well-trained and equipped law enforcement staff.
- Units and programs designed to impact specific crime trends and problem areas.
- A commitment to community policing, partnering with residents and businesses to address crime problems.
- A commitment to practical innovation.
- A combined effort with the First Judicial District Task Force and other federal, state, and local authorities to combat narcotics trafficking and violent crime.

What can be done to reduce crime even more?

“Johnson City is a safe community and we are committed to working with our citizens to make it even safer,” says Police Chief John Lowry. Some of the avenues he recommends for citizen involvement include:

- Neighborhood Watch
- Participation in policing programs at a neighborhood level
- Reporting crimes
- Reporting suspicious activity

“Making our community safe is not a one-sided proposition. It’s a partnership. And, with citizens helping us identify problem areas, we will do everything possible to apprehend and diligently prosecute violators,” says Chief Lowry.

ANNUAL REPORT
HIGHLIGHTS
2010

2010 Program Descriptions

The Department is organized into two divisions under the Chief of Police: Operations and Administration. Simply put, the Operations Division provides first-line law enforcement services for the community (patrol, call response, reporting, investigations, etc.), and the Administrative Division serves in a support capacity (records keeping and management, personnel training, policies and procedure, grants, community policing, community relations, school resource officers, etc.). Within each division are sections and/or units that are assigned specific responsibilities. The divisions and their major components are listed as follows.

Operations

Patrol Platoons (4)
Criminal Investigation
Traffic Enforcement
Special Operations

Administration

Training
Records
Property and Facilities
Jail
Planning and Research
Internal Investigations

Components of these divisions include:

Accreditation Unit	Downtown Officer
Canine Unit	Crisis Intervention Team
EOD Unit (Explosive Ordnance Disposal/Bomb Squad)	Special Investigative Squad
SWAT Unit (Special Weapons and Tactics)	Juvenile Court Officer
Underwater Search and Recovery Unit	Special Victims Squad
Hostage Negotiations Unit	Community Policing Unit
Bicycle Patrol Unit	Park Police Officer
Drug Task Force Unit	School Resource Officers
	Community Relations Officer
	Crime Analysis Unit

The primary task of the Police Department is to respond to calls for service, report the facts, enforce the laws, and investigate crimes. In addition to and in support of this mission, the Johnson City Police Department is very involved with the community on many projects and programs designed to improve partnerships toward a safer community. A partial list of these programs follows.

Central City Weed and Seed	Caring Cops
Citizens Police Academy	Comprehensive Crime Initiative
Junior Police Academy	Alcohol/Crime Investigative Coordinator
Special Prosecutor Program	Seniors and Law Enforcement Together (SALT)
Police Explorers	Say Yes to Fishing and Say No to Drugs
DEFY (Drug Education for Youth)	Defensive Driving Classes (court-referred violators)
AARP Driver Safety Program (senior drivers)	Neighborhood organizations
	National Night Out

Many of these activities are made possible through the acquisition and management of grant funding, for example, from the U.S. Department of Justice (Weed and Seed, JAG/Justice Assistance Grants, Project Safe Neighborhoods, Bulletproof Vest Partnership); Tennessee Department of Transportation (Governor's Highway Safety Office traffic safety grants); and the Tennessee Office of Criminal Justice Programs.

Other funding that supports the Police Department's mission includes the technology fund (a municipal court set-aside percentage from citations and defensive driving school fees) and the drug fund (from fines and forfeitures).

Goal 1 – Administer and Monitor the Traffic Safety Camera Program

The City's traffic safety camera program was launched under the direction of Police Department to address red light running and the dangers posed by this driving behavior. Traffic safety cameras are proven tools for multiplying law enforcement resources and making intersections safer through automated enforcement and encouragement of voluntary compliance. An agreement for services with Redflex Traffic Systems, Inc. was competed and also reviewed and approved by the Commissioners to install the photo enforcement equipment system within Johnson City. There is no cost to the City in any aspect of the program due to the fact that the vendor provides the photo enforcement equipment, maintenance, upgrades, software, and ticketing and mailing systems. A sworn Johnson City police officer reviews each incident on a daily basis and determines whether or not it is a violation prior to the citation ever being mailed to the offender.

The Traffic Safety Camera program's first photo enforcement camera was activated at the intersection of N. State of Franklin Rd. and W. Market St. on February 28, 2010. The remaining five intersection cameras were installed and activated by spring of 2010. The last intersection went live with actual citations on May 31, 2010. Total citations mailed as of December 31, 2010, were 7,769. For the remainder of the year, crashes were tracked with promising trends at several intersections. Data over time will be the most reliable indicator of the program's effect.

Goal 2 – Decrease Part I Crime Rate

The Police Department recorded a slight increase in the City's crime rate in 2010. However, the crime rate closely resembles that of 2009 and remains consistent with downward crime trends over the past six years. Crime rate is a statistical tool used by law enforcement agencies across the United States for determining local trends and how they compare with jurisdictions regardless of size. In calendar year 2009, the City's crime rate for Part I crimes (homicide, aggravated assault, rape, robbery, burglary, larceny, motor vehicle theft, and arson) was 5,271 per 100,000 population. The City's crime rate for 2010 is 5,300. This is well below the City's most recent crime rate peak of 7758, which was recorded in 2004. By far, larceny (theft) still accounts for the majority of crime committed in 2010.

The clearance rate for Part 1 crime for this period is currently 45%. This is a 3% improvement over 2009. A number of factors may contribute to a decrease in crime rate, and they are not all connected with law enforcement (e.g., societal or economic). However, law enforcement, in partnership with the community, state and Federal agencies, and City services plays a major leadership role in applying pressure to problem areas and concerns, thus driving down opportunities for criminal activity and quality-of-life crimes. The principal daily task of a law enforcement agency is to answer calls for service – and that is the bottom line – but this narrow approach is also simply reactive. Personnel resources should be maintained at a level that allows for a proactive rather than merely reactive agenda, so that positive results can be realized and maintained over time.

Goal 3 – Implement Year Four of the Weed and Seed Strategy

The City of Johnson City is currently in the fourth year of its Weed and Seed strategy. Funding for the Weed and Seed program at the federal level will discontinue at the end of the year. Sustainability for year five is currently being explored by Community Development and the Police Department. The program initiated or developed by the Weed and Seed strategy will also continue. The national, proven Weed and Seed strategy combines law enforcement, community policing, prevention/intervention/treatment, and neighborhood restoration components to significantly address identified problems and concerns within the designated area. This has been a strategic goal of the City, and is expected to bring long-term benefit to the Central City Community in addition to the benefits already being realized within this area.

Law enforcement is very active in the Central City Community through this strategy, maintaining and improving relationships with residents and other stakeholders, attending community meetings, and focusing on specific concerns, patterns, and perceptions. Many arrests have been made for both observed violations and warrant service as a result of these details, and include drug and violent crime charges as well as public intoxication, trespassing, and prostitution. Weed and Seed funding is 100% federal with no local match required.

Goal 4 – Decrease Traffic Fatalities and Injuries

There were four traffic fatalities during the calendar year 2010. This number ties last year's total for the fewest recorded traffic fatalities in Johnson City's history. The injury-to-collision ratio was decreased to 9.5% in 2010, which is a 1% drop from last year. Although the total number of crashes increased 4.7% in 2010, the total number of crashes resulting in injury declined from 357 to 334, a 6.4% drop. Arrests for driving under the influence declined 21% during the last three years. Over this same time, however, the number of DUI related crashes have also plummeted 29%. This evidence suggests that the recent implementation of the Department's traffic camera safety program, intensified focus on selective traffic enforcement, and ongoing driver education has achieved the Department's goal of making Johnson City's streets much safer in 2010 than in years past.

The Police Department's approach to traffic safety has always included two of the classic three Es strategy (enforcement, education, engineering) in order to drive down traffic injury and fatality figures. Supporting this objective from year to year have been grant funds through the Governor's Highway Safety Office for enforcement and education, including those targeting driving under the influence, speeding, safety belt/child safety seat violations, and underage drinking and driving.

The Department has continued its partnership with organizations such as Insight Alliance (formerly the Washington County Anti-Drug Coalition) and ETSU's Bucs Against Drunk Driving to educate the public in general and adolescents and young adults in particular about the dangers of drinking and driving. The Department has since 2005 fielded the SAFE CART program, which, in addition to classroom instruction and discussion, gives young people a safe hands-on experience simulating impaired driving. Engineering dovetails with the Police Department's goal in the initiation of the traffic safety camera program noted above.

Another way that the Police Department has committed resources to traffic safety in the last five years has been the establishment of safety belt checks at various locations throughout the City. This has encouraged compliance from motorists through citations as appropriate, and officers are able to take additional enforcement measures with violators whose licenses are revoked or suspended, or who have outstanding warrants on file, for example. Continuing to actively and creatively apply resources to enforcement and education measures will facilitate a safer driving environment for the citizens of and visitors to Johnson City. Personnel levels are critical considerations in order to continue proactive traffic enforcement measures and promote public safety.

Goal 5 – Improve Neighborhood Safety and Customer Service

Under the goals of the Weed and Seed grant many stakeholders from a number of disciplines have partnered together to address problems and concerns in the Central City Community. Community buy-in and ownership is enhanced when residents and other neighborhood users feel their neighborhood is a safe and secure environment to live, work, play, and run a business. With programs like Neighborhood Watch, National Night Out, and Project Safe Neighborhoods, the Police Department and its partners work toward this goal with many communities throughout the City. The Police Department is also an active participant in the Neighborhood Action Committee (NAC), which, under the direction of the City Manager, links City Department/Division heads with community organizations to identify together problems and concerns, and craft and implement solutions for long-term quality-of-life benefit to the community. The primary reasons for the original creation of the NAC were to:

- allow a better structure for dialogue between the City and neighborhood organizations;
- update citizens at the neighborhood level on new and ongoing city-wide service initiatives;
- help City staff better assess the needs of neighborhoods and how to better respond to those needs through the City's services and programs;
- provide support and technical assistance to neighborhoods to facilitate better organization and more effective function; and
- ultimately assist organized neighborhoods to create a Neighborhood Council.

This linkage takes many forms, including prompt access to the Department/Division heads via email and telephone, attendance at regular community meetings, and neighborhood walk-throughs. In 2010, the Neighborhood Action Committee conducted scheduled walkthroughs and follow-ups in the Southside Neighborhood, West Davis Park, and Mountain Home Neighborhood communities. Many issues and concerns were identified, with the residents and City services collaborating to address and resolve them. Law enforcement issues discussed included community safety and police initiatives, the completion of surveys to gauge and address concerns within the community, and the new neighborhood walk-through program.

This latter program provides an opportunity for a core group of City management staff and residents of a given neighborhood organization to walk through the sidewalks and streets of the community, and obtain first-hand information from the residents. It also permits the free flow of ideas on addressing the identified problems, and facilitates a multi-disciplinary approach and partnership – one of the core tenets of community policing. As designed, the members of the City management team then attend the next meeting of the neighborhood organization and report on findings, progress, and ways to address the concerns short- and long-term. In support of this neighborhood program, the Police Department as part of the management team, participated in walk-throughs on October 20 (West Davis Park) and November 16 (Southside), both neighborhoods within the Central City area.

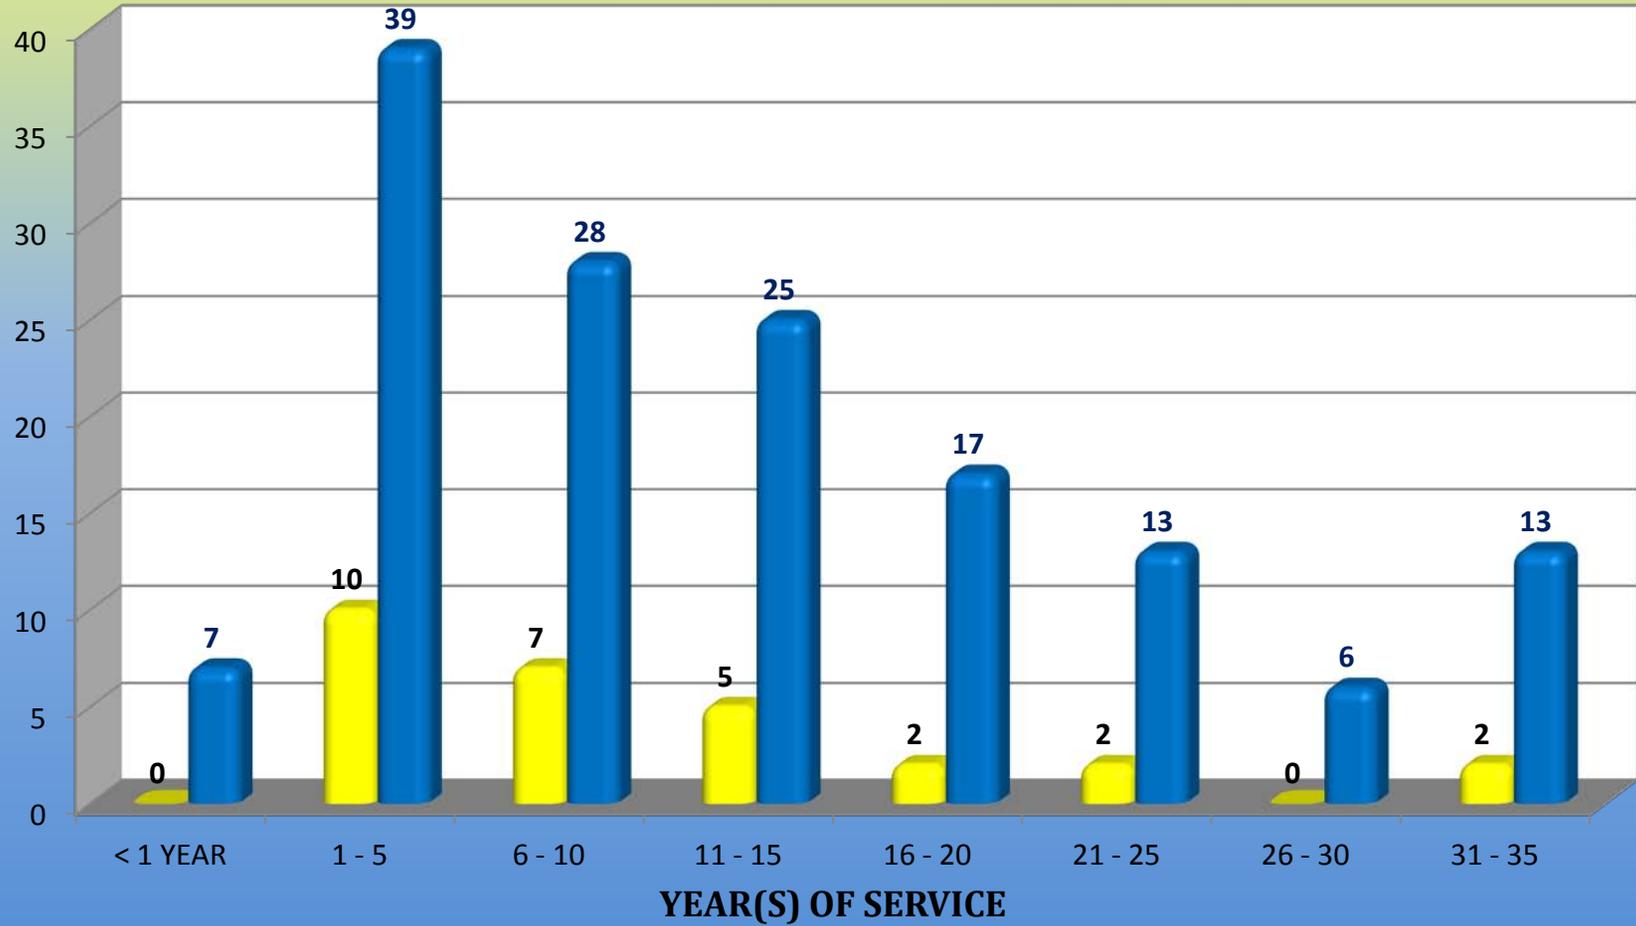

All 16 existing Neighborhood Watch programs remained active during the 2010 calendar year. Two new Neighborhood Watch programs were also initiated in the Martindale and Tanglewood communities. Approximately eight neighborhoods also participated in the August 2010 National Night Out event held throughout the City.

Accreditation Unit:

The Office of Professional Standards and Accreditation continues the process with strengthening proofs of compliance and revisions of general orders to maintain compliance with internationally recognized Accreditation Standards. The Department is one of 47 law enforcement agencies within Tennessee presently accredited, or in the process of becoming accredited, through the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). There are currently over 1000 agencies involved in the accreditation process in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, and Barbados.

Accreditation through CALEA is for a three year period, concluding with an on-site assessment by representatives of the commission. The Department's most recent on-site was conducted August 28 – 31, 2010. At the November 2010 CALEA winter conference, Department representatives were present to receive recognition for the successful achievement of accredited status for the 6th time in 15 years and became the recipient of the Meritorious Award for continuous accredited performance.

In August, the Department applied for and was accepted into the Tennessee Law Enforcement Accreditation Program. The organization reflects many of the guiding principles of international accreditation but is focused more toward accreditation issues on the state level. The department is presently in the self-assessment process with completion and state accreditation anticipated for 2011.

In 2010, two new General Orders were developed, printed, and disseminated. Thirty-eight existing General Orders received revisions, were printed and disseminated. Five Special Orders were issued. Four existing forms were revised and printed, and one form terminated. The Department provided advisory assistance to 46 in-state law enforcement agencies and eight out-of-state agencies.

The Accreditation Unit maintains, issues, and updates, as needed, General Order Manuals, Report Procedures Manuals, City Map Books, and assorted field training materials for new recruits. Policy research was conducted on a variety of issues including light duty and agency traffic pursuits. Guardian Tracking, an employee early intervention and performance documentation program was successfully implemented during this period.

The Annual Citizens Survey of city residents rated the Police Department as average or above in the following categories: overall competence and job performance – 97%, officer's attitudes and behavior – 94%, work performance without regard to biased-based actions – 97%, and providing protection in the community – 96%.

Planning and Research Unit:

The Planning and Research Unit coordinates and manages general direction of multi-year planning; the grant function of the Police Department (research and application, procurement, management, implementation, reporting, coordination and reconciliation of accounts with staff accountant, on-site monitoring/audits by granting agencies); and assists with Police Department budget planning and preparation. The Unit is responsible for several ongoing Department programs, and assists the Administrative Division Commander with tasks and planning relative to the Division.

The Unit works closely with the Operations Division Commander and the Chief of Police on many special and ongoing projects and activities, and also assists command staff in the accomplishment of pertinent tasks. The Unit assists in the coordination of activities (drills, actual events) with the Washington County Emergency Management Agency, and serves as the Department's National Incident Management System point of contact for compliance with NIMS.

The Unit assists and develops policy and procedure in support of the Accreditation Unit, and assists the Accreditation Unit during mock and actual on-sites. The Unit coordinates with division commanders and supervisors in the development and documentation of Department goals and objectives, and works closely with the Department's Integrated Crime Analysis Unit for tracking crime and disorder trends to address short- and long-term community concerns and problems.

With limited budgets, the Unit serves to acquire funds to improve and upgrade the Department's equipment, and promote its service to the community with a wide range of law enforcement and community policing programs. In addition to grants, the Unit provides management, coordination, and liaison for a variety of projects and activities.

Recruitment:

In conjunction with the Human Resources Office, Department recruitment team members participated in two recruitment events this year. The Department has refocused recruitment energies toward future potential candidates with the conduct of an annual Jr. Police Academy (for 13-17 year olds) and greater emphasis on the growth of the Police Explorer Program. The recruitment team is comprised of volunteer members knowledgeable in personnel matters, agency opportunities, salaries, benefits, training and organization. All 2010 recruitment activities concentrated on regional events. The Department continues to respond to phone, mail, and e-mail inquiries concerning employment.

Fishout II

Members of the Johnson City Police Department team up with local fishermen and youth organizations to take kids fishing. Through community youth organizations, children who are interested in fishing are teamed up with experienced volunteer fishermen and taken out on the lake for a day of fishing. This is the first time that many of these young people have ever had to fish from a boat and the fishermen, many of whom are members of local fishing clubs or professional guides, provide positive role models for the youth, hopefully providing the start for a lifetime interest in healthy outdoor activities.

COMMUNITY POLICING UNIT
ANNUAL REPORT
2010

The Johnson City Police Department has established a reputation for initiating progressive measures to address changing community needs. The community policing philosophy is a natural extension of the Police Department's service orientation. Assessing needs with community input, the Department has cooperatively developed an array of programs to address these identified concerns from a proactive standpoint.

Before the inception of the Johnson City Community Policing/Drug Elimination Program in 1991, the Johnson City Housing Authority and the Johnson City Police Department determined that there was a specific drug-related problem in the housing authority areas. Johnson City Police Department statistics defined the problem in terms of disproportionate calls for service and arrests in comparison with the city as a whole; drug arrests and for the entire range of charges and controlled substances; the loitering and trespassing problem; the violent crime attendant to drugs and the drug culture.

An analysis of the drug and disorder problem led Department and Housing officials to develop a specific community-oriented policing program for the housing authority areas. The Community Oriented Policing model, backed by research and replication and successfully implemented in many jurisdictions, was adopted for application in the housing authority developments, and enjoyed success in these areas as well as in expansion to partnerships in assisted housing developments.

Currently, the Community Policing Unit has reached beyond the scope of the public housing and assisted housing areas to serve not only these entities, but also apply a problem solving approach to identified concerns of community residents and stakeholders citywide. Foot patrol, bicycle patrol, community meetings, the mobile police substation, and a wide variety of programs and partnerships characterize this specialized unit's support of the Police Department's mission.

Throughout 2010 the Community Policing Unit has been tasked with providing security for the Johnson City City Commission. During each public meeting of the Commission, the Community Policing Unit has supplied at least one if not two Officers for security. CPU also provides security for the City Commissioners at public events. CPU has also been tasked with providing a bailiff for the Johnson City City Court.

SCHOOL RESOURCE OFFICER
ANNUAL REPORT

The School Resource Officer Unit has accomplished many goals this year. First, SROs Duncan and Hilton attended the NASRO Conference in Lexington, KY. Additionally, SROs Goff, Williams and Ward received SRO Skills Training in Franklin, TN. SRO Dykes went to an armory school sponsored by Remington in Murfreesboro, TN.

Science Hill (all campuses) approached its SROs to assist them in updating their crisis plan. Science Hill's administration and its SROs conducted several meetings to complete this task. The unit was vital in helping plan security operations for the opening of Tipton Stadium (SHHS's new football stadium). We assist in providing security for many school activities to include athletic events, dances, prom, graduation and certain school outings. All SROs complete Building and Grounds Safety checklists for each school on an annual basis as well as participate in the monthly safety drills. Currently the unit is working with WC/JC 911 to conduct training in order to familiarize 911 personnel with school emergency procedures.

Our primary responsibility as a unit is to help provide each school a safe learning environment. We do this by conducting the aforementioned safety check lists for each campus annually. We conduct daily patrols throughout the schools and create report with our students and staff. We investigate incidents and prosecute the offenders when necessary. We attend school staff meetings to conduct training, discuss safety concerns and to gain insight about incidents occurring on our campuses. We make ourselves available to our students so they can address concerns they have at school. We provide law related lectures in classrooms when requested.

We serve the department in other capacities as well. SRO Duncan is on the SWAT team. SRO Williams is the department's Crisis Intervention Team leader. He teaches CIT classes for POST certification and he is the department's liaison to mental health agencies. SRO Goff is on the Crisis Response Team (formally the Hostage Negotiation Team), the Crisis Intervention Team and the Honor Guard. SRO Dykes and Hilton assist with departmental training and recertification.

Attached is the statistical data compiled by the School Resource Officer Unit for 2010. As you view the information, you will see a difference in the productivity levels among the unit's members. This is a reflection of our individual assignments within the unit as well as our particular assignments when school isn't in session. Should you have any questions about the information presented, please contact SRO Goff at 791-4309 or at SHHS-AC (928-0380).
